B) LESSON PLAN Description:

The Bible—both Hebrew and New Testament—is a complex and fascinating text, written by many people, in different languages, over a vast period of time, yet it nonetheless displays an overarching—or underlying—unity, which some attribute to divine inspiration and others to the human imagination. Our purpose in this course is to consider the Bible as both a collection of disparate books and as a unified whole.

C) LESSON PLAN Objectives:

The students will learn how to:

Upon completion of this class, the student will have . . .

1. Gained greater confidence in determining his or her calling.
2. Developed a personal teaching philosophy by writing a philosophy of teaching paper.
3. Gained further understanding concerning the Holy Spirit's role in the teaching process.
4. Learned about various teaching methods along with their effectiveness.
5. Become aware of the importance of the spiritual, intellectual, and homiletical preparation that biblical teaching requires.
6. Become thoroughly familiar with the homiletical process through lecture, discussion, and preparation of lessons.
7. Prepared and delivered a lesson using the principles learned.
